Protect your child from Cyber Crime

- 1. Help your child to understand the basics of internet: Your child may understand the flip side of using internet, but he/she will truly appreciate that once they understand the basics. If they know that every photo / video they share is ultimately stored in a common space, they will think twice before the action.
- 2. Keep digital devices away from the child: Avoid pacifying your child with a game on mobile phone or a video on YouTube.
- 3. Set time limit for online activities: The time spent in front of screens and time spent on offline activities should be balanced. A family technology plan can help in managing expectations around where and when technology use is allowed.
- 4. Restrict privacy settings: Make sure that the games and apps your child is using are having their profiles turned on to the strictest privacy setting. Restrict who can contact your child or ask them to check in with you before accepting new friends.
- 5. Monitor their internet activity, but as a friend: If you put too many restrictions on your children, their curiosity will drive them to that activity. You cannot tell them not to use social media as it's harmful at a young age. Instead, let them use it but ask them to have you added as a friend.
- 6. Show them the difference between real & fake: It is important to sit down with the digital device and help them understand the difference between what's real and what's fake.
